My journey as a software developer began at Dev Academy, a renowned coding Bootcamp that sparked my passion for problem-solving and innovative thinking. With a solid foundation in coding, I am driven to continuously expand my knowledge and tackle new challenges in the dynamic world of software development.

I am eager to contribute my skills, learn from experienced professionals, and make a meaningful impact in the industry. I am excited to connect with like-minded individuals and organizations to collaborate, grow, and thrive in the world of software development. Let's connect and explore opportunities to create innovative solutions together.

I am currently holding New Zealand Citizenship.
